HOW IT WORKS

Mechanism of action

Physiological Sonic in the 10–150 Hz range

Broad, structure-following action

Sonic energy travels along bone, tendon & fascia — one point treats a wide area.

Pain modulation (Gate-Control)

At 100 Hz, A β -receptors inhibit pain signalling in the spinal cord.

Tone regulation

30–70 Hz reduces muscle tone in hypertonia & myofascial pain.

Circulation & fascia release

Sonic micro-pulses raise microcirculation and loosen fascial adhesions.

MODES & CLINICAL USE

How you control it

10–150 Hz continuous · 10–100% intensity · 2 applicators (duo)

Dynamic mode

Frequency sweeps through the set range every 10 s — hits tissue resonance, prevents habituation.

Soft / Deep depth

Soft for superficial, sensitive areas; Deep for deep muscle, fascia & trigger points.

Treatment protocol

10–15 min per session · 2× per week · 3–6 sessions per patient.

Pain-free & practice-ready

Gel-free, disinfestable handpieces · pre-set programs · integrated timer.

INDICATIONS

- Myofascial pain & muscular tension
- Chronic musculoskeletal pain
- Myofascial pain in CMD (jaw dysfunction)

FURTHER APPLICATIONS · UNDER CLINICAL EVALUATION

- Muscle soreness (DOMS) & sports recovery
- Spasticity & neurological rehabilitation
- Geriatrics · fall prevention · mobility
- Post-operative & orthopaedic rehab

THE SOFTWARE

Guided, intuitive touch control

Set intensity, frequency, depth & timer

Select muscle & trigger points on the body map

THE COMPLETE SYSTEM

Control unit and two Applicators: a large one for broad areas and a small one for trigger points & the face, in a professional carry case. Fully mobile, gel-free and pain-free.
